"PHILATELIC MANIACS."

Siam's Stamp Troubles.

200,000 24 alt stamps have now been surcharged one alt, and the authorities have thus attempted to meet the demand for 1 alt stamps, reports the "Bangkok Times." But in surcharging old 24 alt stamps they have created another demand and this time the stamp collector's appetite is whetted. Some collectors have spent many teals in buying these surcharged stamps, and burnt much midnight oil in endeavouring to discover errors in marking.
So keen did some collectors become that they were willing to buy up the whole issue. There are some misprints, but they have not been issued.

The new stamps may be here in four weeks' time.

A couple of days ago we were informed that Post Office No. 2 had some of the 24 alt stamps surcharged 1 alt, but refused to sell. Our correspondent drew the inference that the P. O. was not going to allow itself to be "further inconvenienced by philatelic maniacs of whom I am one." But we fancy the labour of frauding all 1 alt mail matter was so great that it was not continued a moment longer than was necessary. And, as a matter of fact, the surcharged stamps are being sold without question to all who care to buy them.

LADY AT A SEA FIGHT.

A Russo-Japanese Incident.

This is from the "Sydney Morning Herald": Mrs. Lewis, wife of Captain Vaughan Lewis, R.N., who has been commissioned to command H.M.S. Cambrian on the Australian station, arrived in Sydney recently. Mrs. Lewis enjoys the unique distinction of being probably the only living woman who over witnessed a naval action.

With her husband, Mrs. Lewis was aboard the steamer Haimun, a vessel chartered by the London newspapers, at the date in 1904 when the Japanese attacked the Russian fleet at Port Arthur. Some arrangement, by which Mrs. Lewis was to have joined her husband at Chemulpo, miscarried, and she decided that she should go with him on the Haimun at a time when the world trembled with excitement.

When cornered like any ordinary Premier at the Australian Hotel, by a "Herald" representative, Mrs. Lewis felt a good deal embarrassed. She had never been interviewed before, and hardly knew how to take the call. Nevertheless, she faced the ordeal with an easy grace and charm of manner which must win her many friends in Australia, and parried questions with the skill of a practiced diplomatist.

Mrs. Lewis said she had an exciting time in her cruise on the Haimun, and saw much to interest her in the operations of the Japanese at their various bases.
The press ship was allotted a place behind the rearward of the Japanese fleet, and ran many of the risks of war. Floating mines were a commonplace, and what might happen in the event of falling in with a Russian cruiser was always unpleasant to contemplate.
They had the Japanese censor aboard, and his discovery would have resulted in a tragedy. However, the Russians did not find him, although on one occasion the scent was hot. The Haimun, moreover, carried a wireless telegraph apparatus, which added to the risks. Such a method of conducting press business was quite contrary to the Russian idea of how things should be. The St. Petersburg authorities expressed their disapproval at a later stage by causing a ukase to be issued declaring that any person found using wireless telegraphy within the sphere of hostilities would be summarily hanged as a spy.

The Haimun was five or six miles behind the rearmost ship of the Japanese fleet when the historic sudden attack was made on the Russian ships at Port Arthur.
Mrs. Lewis witnessed the onslaught by the Japanese torpedo boats, and saw the Russian battleships Petropavlovsky blown up, with Admiral Morokoff and the celebrated artist, Verestchagin, on board. Speaking of this event, Mrs. Lewis said she experienced no nervousness, and ascribed her absence of fear to the excitement of the surroundings.

Up-Country

very little room, and most sportsmen would no more think of leaving them behind

HOW TO DO MORE BUSINESS.

MANY AMERICANS have built up great commercial enterprises, by the use of Trade-news items supplied by our CLIPPING BUREAU; Chinese merchants can do the same if they follow American methods.

We clip business news from more than 50,000 papers monthly, and send these items to you while there is good prospect of supplying what is needed and doing business.

We can send you news and clippings on any line of business, or any subject, and you will be able to tell, IN THE EVENING, just what American business methods are like, and where there are openings for Chinese merchandise.

Suppose, for instance, you are a maker of Pottery: our Clipping Bureau might find in some paper an item saying that a big wholesale Pottery concern was being organized in a certain town—we, of course, would send you that business-news item, and give you a chance to do business with that firm.

We can do just the same in any line of business, for there is always something being on that it might pay Chinese merchants to know.

We can supply you with advertisements of all the great American merchants and manufacturers, so that you may assimilate their ideas and increase your business in China the way we have increased ours.
To avoid delay, send ten dollars (Max.) for one month's trial order. Subsequent rate can be determined according to service.
It won't cost any money to send for our fine Book which tells all about our service and how much it costs. Send for it today.

Consult references.

A LUCKY SHOEMAKER.

£100,000 From Australia.

A Plymouth telegram to the "Standard" states that, according to cable advices from Australia, judgment has been given in the courts there in favour of the claim of a Devonshire shoemaker to a fortune of £100,000. In 1901, Mr. William Henry Seville Osmond, formerly a member of the Victorian Legislature, died in Australia, leaving his property "to his next-of-kin." Mr. Osmond was a native of Plympton, Devonshire, and a claim was made to the estate by, amongst others, Mrs. Moule, wife of a working shoemaker, at Devonport, as the testator's niece. The rival claims were investigated by a Commission, which sat in England last year, and a decision in favour of Mrs. Moule was given. Against this finding the other claimants appealed in the Australian courts, and judgment has now been given in the Court of Appeal, confirming the decision of the Commission. Mrs. Moule herself has not lived to enjoy her fortune, but the money passes to her husband and her children, who are all in humble circumstances. Two of the sons are sailors in the Navy.

WIFE BURIED ALIVE.

A Ghastly Crime.

An extraordinary case of intentional live burial is reported in the "British Medical Journal." It occurred in the Belu District, C. P. A man named Dama was tried for the murder of Indro, his wife. She had been suffering from chronic dysentery, and the husband took her and her family to another village. Here he appeared to have abandoned his wife and returned with the children to his own village. He stated that he had left the woman with an exorcist for treatment. The village authorities sent for the man, however, and the wife was made over to him. But he came back the same day saying that the woman had died on the way and he had buried her.

Six days later a villager saw something move in the jungle, and his cattle shied when they went near the place. A search was made by the authorities, and they found a grave with the leg of a woman clearly visible. They heard her say, "I am not dead," and she also said that her husband had buried her.

After being lifted out of the grave and given food, the woman was sent to the Badnur Hospital and lived some twelve days longer. The accused man was sentenced to transportation for life.

The extraordinary part of the story, apart from the callousness of the husband, adds the "British Medical Journal," is the fact that the woman must have lain in the shallow grave covered with leaves and branches for six or seven days without food or water and then survived twelve days longer.

HAICHING'S ENGINEER DIES.

Death Due to Plague.

(From Our Correspondent.)
Atoy, January 9.
The third engineer of the steamer Haiching was taken ill with what turned out to be plague, and was put on shore here and taken to the Amoy Hospital on Monday last, 6th, but died on Tuesday early. He was buried in the Kuluang Cemetery at 2.30 p.m. His name was Mr. G. L. Long, and came from Australia. He was only 21 years of age. It is strange how he could have caught plague as this is the cold season, and there are very few cases occurring in the Amoy region just now, but probably he contracted the disease at Hongkong or Foochow.

DO NOT EXPERIMENT WITH CROUP.

WHEN a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail. viz. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Give it, and a quick cure is sure to follow. For sale by all chemists and druggists.
